Re: Posey Solar Project; Visual Impact Assessment
Posey County, IN
Project No. R0027286.00

Dear Joshua:

Westwood updated the view shed analysis, photo simulations and a Visual Impact Evaluation Report for the Posey Solar Project located east of Mt. Vernon, Posey County, Indiana. This assessment was completed to comply with provisions of the Posey County Solar and Wind Ordinance (Ordinance). Westwood evaluated the site based upon the following requirements in the ordinance below and prepared exhibits, tables and images showing required items:

- A. VISUAL IMPACT EVALUATION REPORT: The Applicant shall submit a Visual Impact Evaluation Report evaluating the visual impact of all solar panels on properties within certain distances of the project. The report shall assess the visual impact on all properties within the visual impact zones identified below. The following shall be included in the Visual Impact Evaluation Report:
- 1. a map depicting the dimensions of the proposed site, names and addresses of adjoining property owners not participating in the project that clearly identifies the setbacks distance in feet from each of the each proposed Distal Solar Panel and adjoining property lines, the site of each of the photographic simulations taken in the View Shed Area, town and city boundaries, historic sites/districts, state and local designated scenic areas and roads, recreational areas, open space and conservation areas, schools, parks, water resources, military installations, airports or landing strips, cell towers, weather and radar stations.*
 - 2. detailed description of the potential visibility of each Distal Solar Panel and the methodology used evaluate visibility within the following View Shed Areas and maps of the applicable View Shed Area identifying town and city boundaries, historic sites/districts, state and local designated scenic areas and roads, recreational areas, open space and conservation areas, schools, parks, water resources, military installations, airports or landing strips, cell towers, weather and radar stations.*
 - 3. View Shed Areas Defined: ½ mile radius from each Distal Solar Panel adjacent to the project boundary*
 - 4. Photographic simulations of the View Shed Area in sufficient number to capture the general visibility of Distal Solar Panels and a map depicting the location for each photographic simulation*
 - 5. Any mitigation measures proposed to minimize the visual impact of the project.*

Methods:

Westwood used GIS software and view shed tools from the following software products: GlobalMapper®, Google Earth Pro®, and ArcGIS® by ESRI to determine the view shed impact resulting from the proposed solar panels. This software calculates the visibility of a feature to the surrounding land using digital terrain modeled topography data.

Photo simulation software included Adobe Photoshop® and Autodesk 3ds Max®, and AutoCAD® to depict proposed conditions and to show where the proposed project will be visible from surrounding areas. The view shed tools use ground elevations to predict visibility. They do not incorporate the effects of vegetation or structures that will further limit visibility.

Findings

The proposed facility is shown along with a 100 foot buffer setback from arrays to adjacent non-participating properties identified by number; landowner information correlated with the number on the map displays property owner name, address and PID are included in tabular form (Exhibit 1 & Table 1). In accordance with the ordinance, all solar panels are located more than one hundred (100) feet from any Non-Participating landowner property line, more than fifty (50) feet from a public right of way, more than three hundred (300) feet from the leading edge of all Non-Participating residences and more than five hundred (500) feet from the leading edge of any public building, the property line of any public recreational area, and the property line of any public, private or parochial school. Parcel status and setbacks are also shown at a larger scale in the Preliminary Development Plans.

The view shed of the proposed solar panels was modeled for the adjacent area. An exhibit was prepared showing the proposed facility, the view shed within one-half mile of the solar panels and the physical, government and cultural attributes listed above from the Ordinance (Exhibit 2). Topography and woody vegetation limit long views in the area.

The project spans approximately 7.25 miles from northwest to southeast. The height of the proposed solar panels was modeled at approximately 12 feet above ground level for determining visibility. The project area is relatively flat. Woody vegetation and buildings exist throughout the project area. One typical example is shown in the aerial photo shown in Exhibit 3. A series of four ground photographs show examples of how trees and shrubs and buildings limit long views (Exhibit 4-7). The highest elevation view shed point is at 444 feet above sea level in the northwest. And the lowest view shed point in the southwest is at 374 feet above sea level. According to the output as shown in the view shed analysis, most portions of the solar panels will be visible in the map for more than one-half mile without accounting for any obstruction from existing vegetation or buildings.

Photo simulations showing existing and proposed conditions were based upon the proposed design with the tracker array having a maximum tilt height of 12 feet using existing elevations; they were completed for 5 reference points (1-5) across the project (Appendix 1). Various distances and directions were simulated from the camera viewpoint to the project to illustrate the visual impact of the solar array. Proposed vegetation buffers are shown at mature tree size in the photo simulations.

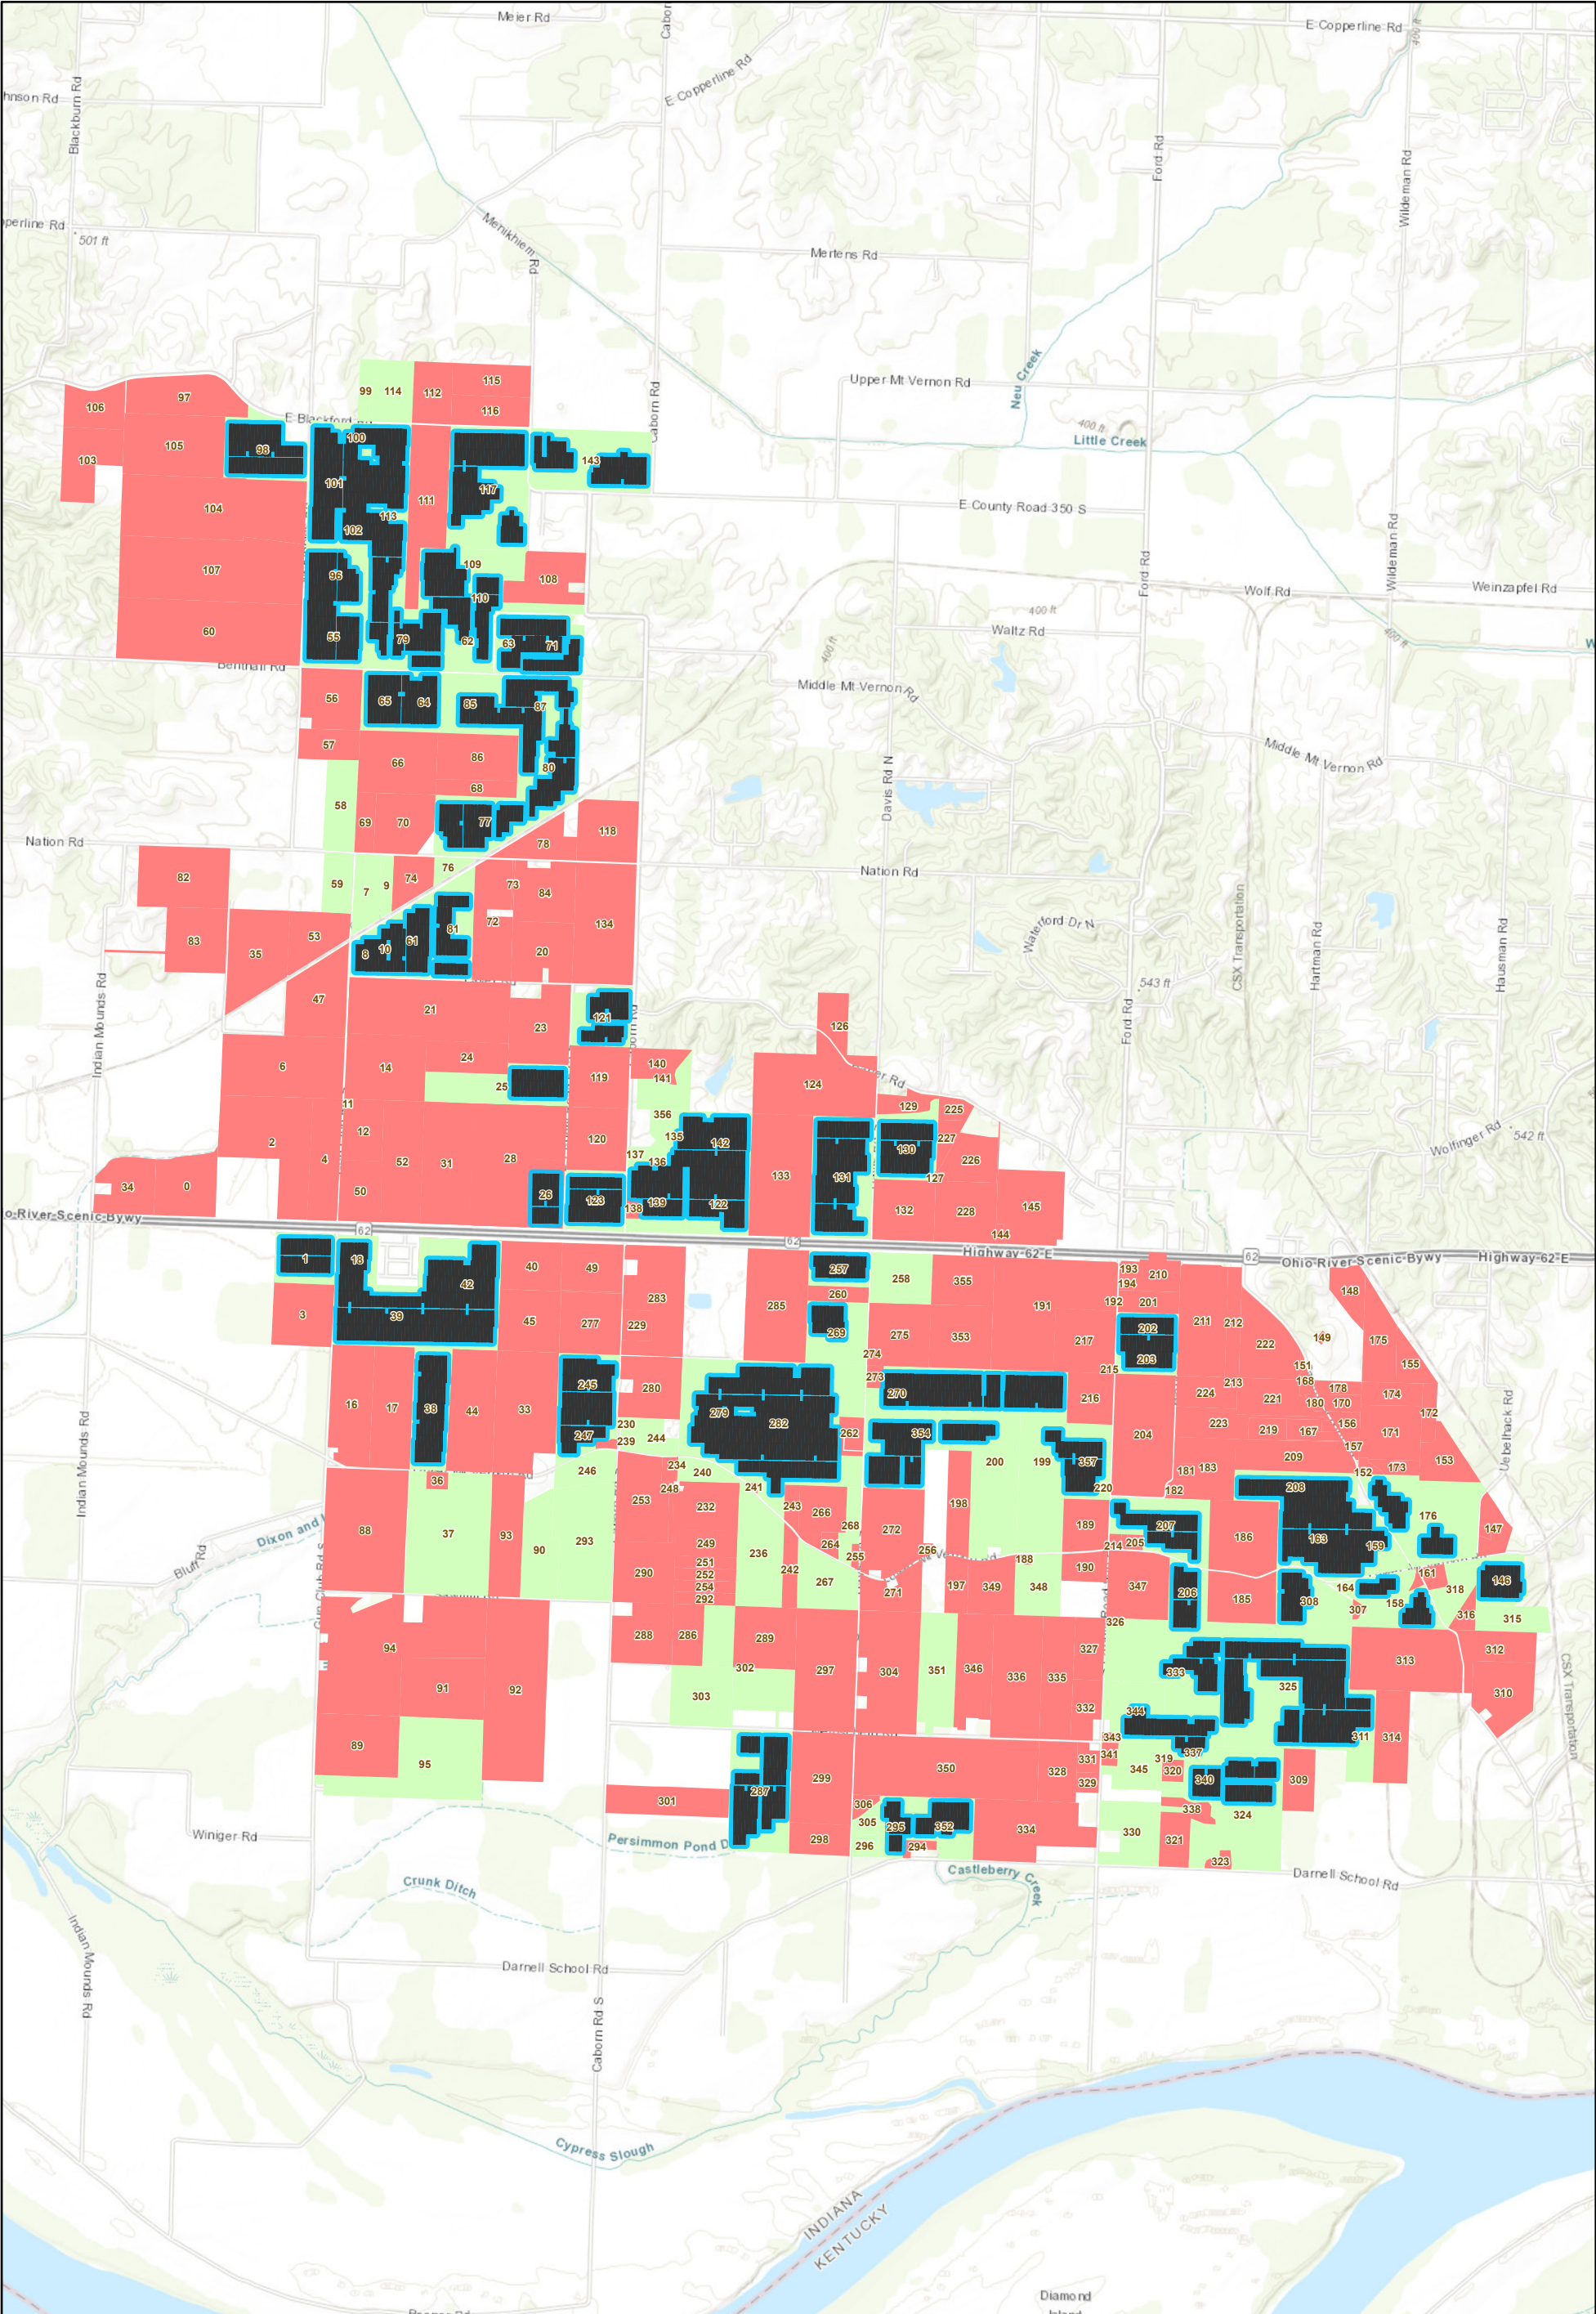

The proposed Project would introduce low vertical, geometric elements that are gray in color into a relatively flat terrain landscape dominated by agricultural fields and areas of trees, shrubs and structures. Any visual impacts are largely mitigated via the Setback Buffers; however, to further mitigate any viewshed impacts from adjacent Non-Participating residences, public buildings, public recreational areas, state/local designated scenic areas or roads, and public, private or parochial schools, the Project has included a Landscape Plan with its Development Plan application in accordance the Solar Ordinance Section 153.126.03(H). The Landscape Plan has been integrated into the Preliminary Development Plans. The individual Site Plan plan sheets identify the Proposed Vegetation Buffer(s) and Sheet L.100 includes the vegetative screening plant schedule, plant materials, and other information regarding selection, intent and planting.
